Human Life for October, 1910.

With the advent of autumn come the long evenings, when a really good magazine adds immeasurably to the happiness and well-being of the whole family. Human Life is the good old English roast beef of the magazine menu—a substantial meal in itself. It deals with living men and women, whose lives and acts are American history in the making. Parents do themselves and their growing boys and girls a wrong who omit it from the evening circle.

The October issue is a tempting one. In the opening article Frederic W. Osborn tells the fascinating story of one of America's greatest Captains of Industry—Theodore N. Vail, whose strong hand guides the destinies of that gigantic organization, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. A wonderful story of a modern Napoleon of finance and organization.

Thomas Dreier tells how Elizabeth Towne, one of the most potent leaders in New Thought, conquered poverty and unhappiness through a knowledge of the great Truths she had tested in the crucible of her own experience.

Next to Roosevelt's own books it is safe to say that nothing published in this country today is attracting anything like the eager reading accorded Alfred Henry Lewis's great serial, "The Story of Roosevelt." His pen pictures of the great political leaders of Roosevelt's day reveal facts that thrill the reader with amazement.

Among the other stirring features that make up this splendid number are "Dave Bunney, Mender of Men;" "Ida Conquest and Her Philosophy of Clothes;" "The Real Founder of the House of Governors;" "Gavie McNab, Clean Boss of San Francisco;" "Modern Mortals;" "Celebrities of the Day." The Camera on Folk of the Road," etc.

As the auto of Mrs. Parsons was coming in the village on Thursday, a hound dog belonging to B. Frank Bunton, ran out in front of the car and was killed.

The package party and social held in Library Hall on Saturday evening, proved to be very successful. The packages were put up for sale, M. W. Moon acting as salesman, and created a great deal of amusement when some of them were opened. The cakes and ice cream were readily disposed of. Forty-five dollars was realized, after expenses were paid.

For many years the French Bluth rate has been steadily declining, but in 1909 for the first time in French history the births and deaths during the year were practically equal. The figures were: Births, 770,000, and deaths, 765,600.

GIVING OUT.

The Struggle Discourages Many a Citizen of Bristol.

Around all day with an aching back;
Can't rest at night;
Enough to make any one "give out."

Doan's Kidney Pills will give renewed life.

They will cure the backache;
Cure every Kidney ill.

Here is Bristol proof that this is so:

Mrs. Amanda McDonnell, 63 Race street, Bristol, Pa., says: "For a number of years I was rarely free from pain in my back and at times it was difficult for me to get about. The kidney secretions were irregular in passage and generally caused distress when being voided. My health was poor and my nerves were all unstrung. Although I did everything I could think of in an effort to get relief, I did not improve. When almost discouraged Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention and I procured a supply. I was surprised with the results of their use. In less than a month all the pain had been removed from my back and I was in much better health. I have never taken a remedy that could compare with Doan's Kidney Pills."

LETTER FROM DOYLESTOWN

The Political Situation As It is Viewed by Our Alert Correspondent.

CLARENCE IN JERSEY

Doylestown's National Guard Company One of the Finest--A Fire Disaster Narrowly Averted.

Doylestown, October 5.

The seat of political activity was transferred from its native heath, Bucks county, to Trenton, last week, and big and little politicians attended the fair, all anxious to grasp the sturdy yeomanry of the Founder's County by the hand and convince them that the salvation of these United States depended upon their election.

Grundy's trained band was early on the ground and Clarence had negotiated one ward in Trenton before he was kindly but firmly told that Trenton was not only not in the Senatorial District in which he was a candidate, but was clear out of the State.

Owing to Clarence knowing so few of his would-be constituents it was necessary to watch Him closely and post him constantly, otherwise an immense amount of his energy would have been wasted on Jerseymen.

A one-night stand was played in Bucks county, however, and forty of the populace assembled in front of the hotel, twenty-five of whom were Democrats. Clarence came out and invited them to come inside when one rude man asked him, "If he had heard the news from Maine?" Clarence replied that the people of Maine were "real mean, so there," but that it would make no difference to Bucks county and was much chagrined when he was told that Bucks county would be another Maine this fall.

A broad smile rippled over the faces of many of the older men in the county seat, one day this week, when some Bristolians wanted to know if the Democratic candidate for Senator and Howard James were related and were told, "why of course and were born and raised at New Britain, close neighbors."

Tut, tut, Howard! you may want some of the James family when you aspire to the judicial top.

The conspicuous political idleness of the men who have fared from the Grundy hand at the county seat is still an occasion for remark and some of the men who are not, and never will be, candidates for office have ascribed it to a desire upon the part of many of the leaders of the party for a new deal in leadership. Roosevelt's whirlwind campaign in New York has inspired them for a "reform within the party" campaign and the ultimate deposition of Grundy and Pete from their Czar-like control of the organization.

The present candidates are far from acceptable to many of the prominent men in the party and while they are content to submit to leadership, boss-ism is a horse of another color and they will in their inmost hearts welcome the defeat of the party this year if by means of this defeat they are able to wrest the control from the big boss and the little boss. This is as well known to Pete, if not to Grundy, as it is to any one and is making the powwow that swing the nominations feel very uneasy, and then too, the Bucks County Liquor League is not producing the results that were expected of it.

The time has gone by when hotel men can control the county. Every year the wave of popular sentiment in favor of local option reaches a higher mark and the time is rapidly approaching when the Legislature will have to enact a law, giving the people the right to vote on the liquor question and the liquor people are beginning to see that just as soon as it is probable that Bucks county will swing for local option, just that soon Grundy will drop them and prove, to his own satisfaction at least, that he was one of the first men in the county in favor of it.

The Liquor League is beginning to hedge and when the votes are counted you may depend upon it that they will congratulate the men who are elected and tell them that they were for them first, last and all of the time.

Congressman Wanger refused to discuss his record with candidate for Congress, Difenderfer, because he, Difenderfer, criticized President Taft. Will Wanger now refuse to extend the right hand of fellowship to Congressman Hampton Moore, of Philadelphia, who recently gave to the public press a much more severe criticism than that of Difenderfer. By the way, where does Wanger stand in the Inland Waterway question, a matter of the utmost importance to the Bucks county end of his district? Has any one heard him express himself on that important question?

G Company, N. G. P., of Doylestown, the only company in the county, has again distinguished itself. In 1908 Major Thomas Biddle Ellis, offered an exceedingly handsome solid silver loving cup as a trophy to be shot for by the companies of the second batallion, A, of Phoenixville; D, of Pottstown; F, of Norristown and G, of the county seat. The company winning it three times in succession to keep the cup. This was virtually putting three companies of Montgomery county against one of Bucks county, but as usual, old Bucks was equal to the emergency and under the able management of Captain Abel MacReynolds won in 1908 by one point, in 1909, by fourteen points and in 1910, last Saturday, by forty-one points. The day was a bad one for fine marksmanship and yet, in spite of the weather, G Company made a very creditable score, one hundred and forty out of a possible two hundred, at two hundred yards and one hundred and fifty-three out of a possible two hundred, at five hundred yards. The winning team was George Atkinson, who made thirty-four at the two hundred and thirty-seven at the five hundred yards; Ed. Kentopp, who made thirty-four at the two hundred and thirty-four at five hundred yards; G. Lorah Wilson, who made thirty-five at two hundred and thirty-seven at five hundred yards; Leon Thomas, who made the best individual score of the match, thirty-seven at two hundred and forty-five at five hundred yards. This is a matter of pride for the whole county as it was Bucks against Montgomery and a three to one shot in their favor. The men were highly complimented by Captain John J. O'Brien, Regimental Inspector of Rifle Practice, who is a crack shot himself and who made forty-eight out of a possible fifty at five hundred yards, with a gun he had never seen before, just to show the boys how easy it is. He expects to draw heavily on the Bucks county company to make up his Regimental team of crack shots and put the Sixth Regiment in the lead when the State Regimental shoot is held next fall.

The county seat had a narrow escape from a serious fire, last week. A colored boy, of about twelve years, whose mother is a domestic in the family of Dr. Felix Murphy, was playing with matches in the doctor's woodshed in the rear of his Court, street residence, just opposite the National Bank. As a result the boy started a fire inside the shed and when it got beyond his control ran to his mother and told her of it. Both Dr. and Mrs. Murphy were away from home and the woman did not know what to do. By the time the building spring into a blaze a neighbor saw it and turned in an alarm. The chemical wagon was there in a jiffy, but it was not that kind of a fire, but soon after the boys had two lines of hose in operation which quickly put out the blaze. At the time the first stream was put on the blaze was fully fifty feet high and sparks had set fire to the roof of the barn attached to the Hebb Restaurant, but these also were quickly subdued. The fire occurred among a nest of old barns and sheds, which have long been a menace to the county seat's safety from fire, and insurance men and experts in fire have freely predicted that should a fire ever start in one of these buildings they would all go, but, the efficiency of the county seat volunteer fire department has proven that the experts were mistaken. Taking it all around people are still wondering how the other buildings escaped.

Oxford Valley Varieties.

A valuable cow belonging to J. B. Tomlinson died last week.

C. E. leader for next Sunday evening will be Mrs. J. B. Tomlinson.

Mrs. Samuel Ahlum has returned from a visit to her mother in Bristol.

A successful social event was a dance given in the hall last Saturday evening.

The Sunday school is preparing for Rally Day, October 23. Services at 2.30. Rev. W. W. Sweet will be present to take part.

LIVELY ITEMS FROM OLD BRIDGEWATER

Mrs. James Clark recently entertained her sister.

John Lappin and wife visited P. J. McFadden on Sunday last.

Ira Brown was a recent guest of Miss Elma Lewis the past week.

Mrs. Franklin Baker is spending some time in Atlantic City.

Miss Rosa Scott was here from Gettysburg a couple of days last week.

Mr. Rafferty entertained friends last Sunday. He expects to move shortly.

P. H. McFaddea entertained his son, John, from New York last Sunday.

Mr. Forl, of Eddington, is very fond of shooting squirrels in Moore's woods.

F. B. Satterthwaite visited David Satterthwaite in Fallsington on Sunday last.

William Dyer, Jr., and family were recent callers on some of their relatives here.

Charles Parsons, of Mutton Point, took dinner with John McFadden on Sunday last.

Samuel Lewis and wife, of Eddington, have been spending the past week in Ohio.

Eli Allen has been pretty well crippled up since the dance last Saturday evening.

Dr. Dugan is kept busy in his little store, as the assistant superintendent is off on his vacation.

Last Monday afternoon Mrs. J. P. Vandegrift entertained her cousin, Mrs. Storms, of Andalusia.

It is rumored that John Lappin, Jr., is going to start a new store in Bridgewater. We wish him success.

Samuel Jones, our famous chicken tamer, says he will never be a bachelor as long as there are tulips around him.

A number of the people still visit their summer cottages in old Bridgewater. It is hard for them to leave the place.

William Wilmire, who was laid over the digging of a cellar for a bungalow at Mr. Saunders, has given up his job on account of a sore foot. Steve Kline has also resigned on account of a sore arm.

A select dance party was given in Philip Donahue's pavilion last Saturday evening. The most of the people want to take dancing lessons before they have another one, as only four knew how to dance.

A large number of friends attended the one hundredth anniversary of the old Bensalem Methodist Church last Sunday. The meeting was an interesting one and everyone enjoyed listening to the different speakers present. They received a collection of one hundred and seventy dollars.

Lewis V. Jackson, a long and well-known resident of Eddington, died last Saturday morning at 7 o'clock and was buried on Tuesday from his late residence. Interment was made in Cornwells cemetery. The deceased is survived by a widow and one son. Mrs. Jackson has the heartfelt sympathy of her neighbors and a large church circle.

There was an exciting time at the power house last Monday afternoon when a colored man struck an Italian over the head with a shovel. He fell to the floor unconscious. They were employed by a mason and were cementing the floor of the power house when the Italian accidentally ran into the colored man's wheelbarrow and then the fight began. The negro was taken to Bristol before two trolleymen and locked up in the town house to await further action.

Last Sunday morning was communion in the Presbyterian Church, Eddington. A number of people were admitted to membership. Rally Day services will be held next Sunday evening. All the Sunday school scholars who will be present at Sunday school will be given flags and all those that attend church will be given souvenir buttons by the pastor in remembrance of the day. The first prayer meeting of the season was held at J. W. Simons', Eddington.

EDITORIAL VIEWS ON TOPICS OF THE DAY

Ignorantly Appeals to the Ignorant.

Pottstown Blade.

The editor of the Bristol Courier, Bucks County, in his writings about the tariff ignorantly appeals to the ignorant. This week he infers that reciprocity would set the town of Bristol back 50 years and would practically wipe it off the map. In writing about the tariff hereafter we would advise the gentleman to use the other end of his pencil and if that doesn't do good try the other end of his drinking capacities.

Penrose's Dummy Candidate.

Philadelphia Record.

It is necessary for the Republican newspapers to mention frequently that Mr. Tener is running for Governor. Otherwise the fact would be forgotten even in the candidate's own party. Senator Penrose's dummy isn't making stir enough to keep his name in the public mind. He will get a great part of the Republican vote merely because his name is on the ticket under the proper heading, but it is of no use to pretend that he is arousing the slightest interest. In fact there are few Republican papers that make any such pretense. He is simply walking through his part, and if he were John Doe or Richard Roe the Republicans would show as keen an interest in his election.

Taft and Roosevelt.

San Francisco Argonaut.

Mr. Taft's individual merits are many and great, but he is not happily placed in the character of a political bell-wether. He does not like the game; he does not know the game; he has the gifts essential to a successful part in it. If he succeeds it must be by force of other qualities than those of inspiring popular leadership. While Mr. Taft is appealing earnestly if not effectively for party harmony his presumed friend, Mr. Roosevelt, is exercising far greater political talents to the end of party disruption, and in so doing he is not, in the judgment of the Argonaut, playing a friendly part as related to Mr. Taft, a loyal part as related to the fortunes of the party, nor a patriotic part as related to the broad interests of the country. Mr. Roosevelt's gift in statecraft is wholly destructive, and in its aims, or at least in its effects, wholly personal. What he has said and done during the past few weeks has tended steadily and powerfully to that kind of dissatisfaction which disrupts political parties.

Insurgency.

Portland Oregonian.

What is insurgency?

A sort of an epidemic which has spread all over the United States.

For what object?

To split the Republican party into two factions.

What is the result?

Thus far the election of Democratic Congressmen in districts that have always been safely Republican.

Is the disease spreading?

Read the returns from Maine. "As Maine goes, so goes the Union."

What is the remedy?

There is none. The Democrats are playing both ends against the middle. That party presents a solid front.

Will the next Congress be Democratic?

Maybe two to one.

What about Oregon?

The worst duck in the puddle.

Will Oregon elect a Democratic Governor in November?

Possibly.

How about Congressmen?

We are worried. But what's the use? There is no Republican party in Oregon.

What has become of the party that elected Taft?

Ask Roosevelt.

Democratic Stock Rising.

Boston Herald.

It is suggestive to see New Jersey thus substituting the statesman for the politician. Ohio Democrats have a similar type of leader in Judge Harmon. Connecticut Democrats have nominated a gubernatorial candidate with whom they can appeal to the confidence of the public. New York Democrats will miss their great opportunity if they do not select their candidate with similar care. And it follows without saying that a similar responsibility rests on Massachusetts Democrats. In this way Democracy is to be rehabilitated.

It is encouraging to find that the crisis in the affairs of the Republican party, which seems certain to weaken if not to throw off entirely the strong hold which that party has had on national government, is not to be taken as an opportunity for the self-seeking politician to ride into office on the wave of protest. Democracy apparently is not to depend on the weaknesses of its opponents. Nor is it appear to be blindly chasing after the will-o'-the-wisp of popularity. Such nominations as that of President Wilson are an indication of purpose to improve the opportunity to build foundations for a permanent structure. And in the possibility that the Republican party, under a new leadership, may go chasing after false gods, trying new experiments which challenge the fundamental relations of states and nation, the new Democracy will find its best opportunity in harking back to old principles and institutions, given new life by perfecting their efficiency through elevating the standard of men responsible for their operation.

Wool and the Tariff.

Springfield Republican.

Secretary Wilson has been telling Ohio voters about the calamity to the woolgrowing industry which await it if the Democrats succeed in the coming elections. The American Protective Tariff League is also talking about the calamity to fall upon that and the wool-manufacturing industry if President Taft persists in his purpose to have the wool tariff schedule opened for consideration under the inquiries of the tariff board. This does not necessarily mean, however, that Secretary Wilson is leaning to the league's view as against the administration, but he would have the country know what happened to wool when the Democrats were last in power:—

When wool was put on the free list by the Wilson-Gorman tariff during Cleveland's last administration we had over 47,000,000 head of sheep. Their total value was about $126,000,000. This was in 1892. In 1898, the number of sheep had decreased 36,000,000 in total numbers and the total value was about $67,000,000, or about one-half the value in 1892.

That reduction in the number of sheep under free wool was not as great, however, as a reduction which took place under the high Dingley wool duties when the number fell from about 64,000,000 in 1903 to 45,000,000 in 1905, and if there was a smaller relative decline in the total value of sheep between the last years mentioned than in the time spoken of by Secretary Wilson, it is to be noted that the general fall in values or prices around 1896 was much greater than from 1903 to 1905, and was related to other causes than the removal of the tariff on wool.

Free Correspondence Courses in Agriculture.

Farmers and others can probably not put in their leisure during the winter to better advantage than in pursuing some of the correspondence courses in agriculture which are given free by the Pennsylvania State College. These courses will be found beneficial for a number of reasons, among which may be mentioned the following: first, they furnish information of direct value to the farmer; second, they encourage systematic rather than desultory reading and study; third, they encourage reading to a purpose rather than merely as a pastime; fourth, they stimulate habits of study and experiment, helping the pupil to find out things for himself; fifth, they in many cases suggest points bearing on the farm which have not been brought to notice.

Instruction is now given in thirty-three courses covering practically all of the ordinary farm operations, including general agriculture or crop production, animal husbandry, dairying, horticulture and the home. A course in Pedagogy of Agriculture is also given, primarily for teachers. Those interested should write to the Department of Agricultural Education, State College, Pa., for catalogue of the Correspondence Courses and enrollment blank. The tuition is free there being no fees whatever connected with the courses.

NEWTOWN NOTES

Mrs. Evan T. Worthington is on the sick list.

Alexander Chambers is off on a business trip to North Carolina.

Mrs. Martin Kerns spent last week with her daughter at Jersey Heights, N. J.

Mrs. Sara A. McConn is visiting her friend, Mrs. Williams, at Jenkintown.

Alban Watton is back to town, after spending a year in the Adirondack mountains.

Miss Margaretta Packer has gone to Ann Arbor, where she has entered the university.

Miss Emma Wilson, of the township, was a guest of Miss Helen T. Worstall on Sunday.

Harry C. Case started on Monday night on a business trip to Georgetown, South Carolina.

Miss Sara A. Tomlinson entertained a number of her friends with a "500 party" in Tomlinson's hall on Saturday evening.

Mrs. Isaac Geer and children and maid, of Logansport, Indiana, are visiting Mrs. Geer's mother, Mrs. Harry C. Thornton.

Miss Marianna Packer was over from Montclair, N. J., as a week-end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Packer.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Knight were Sunday guests of the family of Horace G. Broadhurst at Buckingham.

Albert W. Hogeland has returned to Ann Arbor to resume his studies at the university there. Miss Katharine Graham has also returned to the same university.

Miss Sara W. Hicks is improving her house on Chancellor street, recently occupied by Prof. George B. Nott. Electric lights will be installed among other improvements.

The ladies social and aid society of the Presbyterian Church will hold their annual autumn tea next Saturday evening in Newtown hall, where a delightful supper will be served.

Mrs. Herbert Harding, of Scranton, is spending some time with her relatives and friends here. She was a week-end guest of Mrs. Harry C. Case, who entertained a bridge party in her honor on Monday morning.

The New Century Club celebrated its 15th anniversary on Wednesday afternoon. The presidents and ex-presidents were 15 in attendance and added much to the afternoon's pleasure. Dainty refreshments were served to all the members, who were in attendance.

The Senior Loyal Temperance League will hold the first meeting of the winter on Monday afternoon in the primary school room. During the summer the legion has done a great deal of flower mission work, sending 3000 bouquets to Philadelphia, besides distributing to the sick in the neighborhood.

Parkland Pointers.

Miss Eva Lewis spent the week-end at this place with her father.

Charles H. Braun and family spent a few days last week at this place.

Mrs. H. A. Richardson, of Brooklyn, was a recent guest of her sister, Mrs. Carrie V. Schuellermann. While here she also visited her nephew, Mrs. Allen T. Green, in the Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Locke have returned from a very pleasant sojourn at Atlantic City and are now entertaining their neice, Mrs. Mary Longmire, of Alexander, La., and Miss Mary Galloway, of Philadelphia.

Parkland school now has 84 pupils enrolled and the following named attended regularly every day during the month of September, Russell Green, Robert Green, Earl Schock, Margerite Schock, Elizabeth Buckman, Mary Bodenschatz and Stella Tetlow.

After a very successful season at Parkland, under the management of the Greens, Lubin's moving pictures are now being continued at Hulmeville hall every Saturday night. A pleasing feature is the singing by Miss Elizabeth Reineck and Lawrence Norrit, of Parkland.

Rudolph H. Winter and family and Andrew Erhart and family this week returned to their city home. Just before their departure Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Schock gave them a party at their home on Highland avenue, at which a very pleasant time was spent with music, singing and games, after which all enjoyed and duly appreciated the refreshments set before them.

The Misses Hughes have closed their summer home in Spring Grove and returned to the city. Uncle Isaac Wallace and Miss Emma Smith have also returned to their city home; and, now, in wandering over the lower grounds, one is met on every side by closed cottages, for only a very few are now occupied. No longer do the groves resound to the merry voices of happy children at play, nor the babbling brook and rustling trees unite in rythm of perfect harmony. To those who hear and heed, and to the true philosopher is not sad at all this change, but sees good and beauty on every side and through Nature's harmonies is led to commune with the supreme power, dwelling in the innermost center of his being.

BUCKMAN'S "GAGGE JOKE."

Clarence Buckman is exceedingly unfortunate in the choice of his defenders of his legislative record.

In the attempt to belittle the significance of his action in assenting to apply the gag to members of the legislature who desired the limelight shed on shady transactions Buckman's valiant but uninformed champion says the "gag" was applied "on the closing days of the last session upon the recommendation of the Committee on Rules and after a resolution had already been adopted fixing upon April 1 as day of adjournment," but that the gag rule was adopted as a time saver made necessary by the rush of bills which almost smothered the House in its closing hours."

Now we happen to know something about these matters of legislative details. The "gag" resolution was not adopted at a time when there was a rush of bills which almost smothered the House during its closing hours. Mr Buckman voted for the resolution to prohibit debate on original resolutions on Monday night, January 3 1910 at the very beginning of the legislative session, practically before a bill had been introduced.

The assertion that the "gag" rule was applied to save time appears ridiculous to any one who knows anything about the circumstances, as resolutions can only be presented on Monday nights and Friday mornings, when practically no other legislative business is transacted.

Mr Buckman is cutting a pitiable figure in his attempts to defend his subservicncy to the McNichol gang in the legislature.

Mr Buckman's champion also claims that the Senatorial aspirant's participation in the forged telegram trick was a huge joke perpetrated upon an unsuspecting legislator."

It was thus: Probably the citizens of Bucks county will feel flattered to think that they elected a representative to the State legislature to play pranks upon fellow members during the sessions.

The facts in the case are that Samuel B Scott, of Germantown, who had a proper conception of his legislative responsibilities, positively rebelled against being hauled into the Penrose caucus and persisted in voting for another than the machine candidate for United States Senator.

While the House was engaged in voting for United States Senator, an alleged telegram was forwarded to the Speaker's desk and by him read to the House purporting to come from the candidate for whom Mr. Scott voted. The name signed to the "message" was false and had no existence as a real document. Some one attempted by a forgery and with deliberate intent desired to influence the action of the House by means of the fraudulent document.

Mr Scott introduced a resolution on Monday evening January 25, the night the gag rule was applied, calling for an investigation of the telegram trick in order that the perpetrators might be exposed, but under the new rule it was "referred to committee without debate." On February 2 Mr Scott appealed to the House that his resolution be taken from the committee where it had been smothered for a month and be placed upon the House calendar for action by the members. A vote was taken on the motion and Messrs Buckman and Clymer are recorded as voting with those to not report Mr Scott's resolution and against any investigation. Huge joke—for Clarence.

We would be pleased to hear how Mr Buckman's explanation of his and Mr Clymer's action in voting against the bill to prevent the giving of short weights and measures in the selling of any goods. There were only four of the 207 voters who had the nerve to vote against such a measure and Bucks county's representatives furnished half of that number.

Did Mr Buckman will attribute as a huge joke his active help in defeating the proposed law making it a misdemeanor for any minor child to procure intoxicating liquor. Mr Clymer deserted his colleague in this proposition and let Buckman frame a joke himself.

Mr Buckman may also attribute as a joke his opposition to the bill to strengthen the law prohibiting gambling and gambling devices.

You can go through the whole Legislative Record and find it full of Buckman's jokes.

ANOTHER CASE OF LARCENY!

The national Republican platform of 1908 contained the following paragraph:

We denounce the efforts of the Democratic majority of the House of Representatives to destroy our tariff laws [illegible] as manifested by their attacks upon wool, lead, and lead ores.

Times have changed, Republican candidates for Congress, upon the advice of President Taft, are now advocating and promising tariff revision "piecemeal" with the intimation that the schedules enumerated will be the first ones tackled. In other words, the Republicans have adopted another Democratic idea.

The Conshohocken Recorder says that the endorsement of Mr. Difenderfer, the Democratic candidate for Congress, by the Keystone party, offers nothing to attract Republican votes as Mr Difenderfer is a "man with absolutely no experience in public life." We acknowledge that experience is of great value for one in a representative capacity when that experience is used for the benefit of those whom the representative is supposed to represent. At the end of seventeen years' "experience" at Washington Mr. Wanger stands before the people of the Eighth Congressional district as one of the unfaltering followers of the Cannon machine which has legislated in favor of every trust and predatory interest that has been granted special privileges by the law-making body. Mr. Wanger's "experience" is such that the voters of this district should end it at once.

followed weekly
Speaker Cannon a[illegible] was was accomplished to[illegible] was obtained by loyal and [illegible] representatives from other districts than in the Eighth, which Mr. Wanger is supposed to serve.

Mr. Wanger's record is almost one unbroken tally of votes in favor of Cannon, Cannonism and the interests that prey upon the public.

He voted for Cannon for Speaker, when three real Republicans were also candidates—Cooper, of Wisconsin Norris, of Nebraska, and Esch, of Wisconsin.

When the fight was made against the arbitrary rules of the House, Wanger also voted for the Dalzell resolution to adopt the old rules, which was defeated.

He voted against the resolution restricting the committee-appointing power of the Speaker.

He voted with the Fitzgerald faction many Democrats, on the bogus resolution to revise the House rules.

He voted against all the free lumber amendments in the tariff schedule.

He voted against placing hides on the free list, thus saving the interests of the beef trust.

He voted against the motion to recommit the tariff bill with instructions to amend the same according to a revenue policy and in addition to place trust-controlled products on the free list.

He voted against the amendment to elect a committee to investigate the Ballinger Pinchot scandal by the House from the members of the House as a whole, instead of appointment by the Speaker.

He voted against the resolution declaring the office of the Speaker vacant.

He voted to cripple the enforcement of the railroad regulation law by so limiting the appropriations to the Inter State Commerce Commission as to make enforcement almost impossible.

Angus McSween, one of the best known Washington newspaper correspondents, says:

Seventeen years of continuous service in the house of representatives have given to Irving P Wanger member from the eighth district of Pennsylvania, no greater prominence than to be known in the house itself as a most reliable supporter of bossism in whatever form it has taken during his membership, and a willing defender of special privilege."

IT BEGAN IN 1896.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says that when Lafayette, Rochambeau, Viomenil, De Estaing, De Grasse, and their comrades returned to France from America they little dreamed that they and their soldiers and sailors, fresh from a victory for liberty here, were carrying the germs of thought, the seeds of insurrection the ideas of revolution to their king and their country.

Yet many of the soldiers that stormed the lines of Cornwallis at Yorktown were in the front ranks of the assailants when the Bastille fell, and the campaign in Virginia was the primary lesson in war to the leaders who repelled the armies that invaded republican France to re-establish the Bourbons on the throne.

It was the sentiments imbibed in America under our Revolutionary leaders that destroyed the kingdom and overthrew the dynasty.

History repeats itself, and in politics, as in war, sets forth its lessons.

In the campaign of 1896 fully 1,000,000 of former Republicans took part in that campaign as supporters of Democratic principles.

In succeeding campaigns many of them returned to their former party affiliation, but they carried into the very heart of the Republican organization the sentiments absorbed in that remarkable campaign.

It was conviction in 1896 and it has remained conviction ever since with them.

Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado and Washington were Democratic then by the votes of the Republicans of those states, and today they have overthrown the old Republican organization, and in less than 15 years have inoculated the entire Republican party of the Union, and through the throes of party revolution the men holding to their sentiments are assuming charge of the organization.

So, too, may be carried further the illustration.

Lafayette, with his American notions of the rights of the people, and Mirabeau, with his desire for liberty with law, soon found that early radicalism became later conservatism, and placed them under the ban of suspicion of their more 'progressive' recruits, ambitions to lead and displace them.

Revolutions never go backward, and the Republican party is in the rapids that precede the whirlpool.

AFTER ELECTION.

The Republicans promise to make public the source of their campaign contributions—after the November congressional election.

The report of the standpat Republican members of the Ballinger investigating committee is to be made public—after the election.

Nothing further is to be said of the $5,000,000 Taft-Humphrey shipsubsidy grab bill—until after election.

The soft pedal is to be applied to the Oklahoma Indian lands thievery—until after the November election.

Nothing is to be done with the Lorimer investigation—until after election.

No step is to be taken in the sugar trust-friar lands Philippine scandal—until after the November election.

And, last but not least from the standpoint of relative importance, the National Monetary commission, of which Senator Aldrich is chairman, will not make its report recommending a central government bank—until after the November election.

There were nearly 3000 entries at the international horse show recently held in London.

Walter H Langshaw, of New Bedford Mass is one of the largest owners of cotton mill property in the United States. He has made a great success in his business and yet he is one of the strongest denouncers of the Aldrich tariff law and the cotton schedule. Mr Langshaw unhesitatingly declares the textile tariff to be an outrage upon the country and is nothing more than grand larceny committed upon the citizens of a nation. Mr Langshaw denounces the Aldrich tariff as a fraud upon the public and demands immediate revision downward by the next Congress.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The editor of the Gazette assumes no responsibility whatever for the views expressed by correspondents. The columns of this paper are open for free discussion of any legitimate topic. Correspondents must however, in all cases necessarily for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

Now Is the Time to Fight.

Editor Gazette—A letter in last week's Gazette signed "Junius" attracted my attention as it attracted the attention undoubtedly, of those words of others of your readers. To say that it is "red hot" in denouncing "gangsters" and "grafters" and professional candidates is to state the case mildly.

Well I am Independent candidate for any office I would surely cause this letter to be printed in circular form and placed in the hands of every voter in this Congressional district.

While I endorse nearly every line in the letter of Junius, yet I think it is mistaken in saying that this is a "Christian Nation"—that Christian voters are in the majority, and that they could elect whom they pleased if they would only "vote as they pray."

I do not believe it! In the first place it is a mistaken idea that every church-goer is a Christian. It is perfectly safe to say that not one church goer in ten practices in every day life the teachings of Jesus as preached from the pulpit in the land. In this statement the fact remains that a vast number of churchmen are highly respectable citizens when it comes to their duty at the polls at every election. Consequently the selfish and ignorant masses of society do reflect the land, led by bosses and party "heelers," swing every election in favor of professional politicians who have the cash to "buy a majority" as stated in the letter referred to.

Now as to what is needed in this Christian land of the free, so called, at this particular time, when political revolution is in the air, is neither Baptists nor Presbyterians nor Catholics nor Unitarians, nor any other sectarian, but we do need American citizens animated in some degree by the spirit of the men of '76 men who not only pray, but who will fight in the cause of righteousness.

One of the greatest demonstrations of civic and American citizens ever witnessed in Philadelphia took place recently when the German Society of Pennsylvania celebrated German Day by unveiling and presenting to that city a handsome bronze statue of Major General John Peter Gabriel Muhlenberg.

The monument consists of a bronze statue of heroic size, nine feet six inches high and a pedestal seven feet high of dark Barre Vermont granite highly polished and of plain monumental proportion. On the sides of the pedestal are graven statements regarding General Muhlenberg's career. On the left side appear the words Charleston, Sullivan's Island, Brandywine, Germantown, Monmouth, Petersburg, Yorktown, Fort [illegible]. On the right side are shown the various positions that the general occupied and on the rear are the date and inscription of the statue, and the seal in bronze, of the German Society. The front of the pedestal is ornamented by a bronze relief showing the old church at Woodstock, Va with Muhlenberg preached his famous sermon in the spring of 1776 after which he threw off his priestly gown beneath which he wore a full uniform, and called the men of the congregation to arms. Inscribed in the tablet are the words with which he aroused his followers:

"THERE IS A TIME TO PREACH AND A TIME TO FIGHT, AND NOW IS THE TIME TO FIGHT."

If this is a Christian Nation, as claimed by Junius, and Christian voters are in a vast majority, then prevent the polls next November. NOW IS THE TIME TO FIGHT."

The Progress of China.

Chu [illegible]

It seemed the young emperor of China [illegible] was made to cast away the traditional silken robes of his ancestors and to put on a smart military uniform of European cut, appropriate to his rank as head of the imperial army. A small change, but full of meaning. It makes the soldiers calling finally respectable in China and shows approval of national dress by modern means.

This in turn brings a transformation still more striking. The prince regent [illegible] in a stand against the sacred pigtail or Chinese queue. The suggestion seems to have reached him from the Americanized Chinese of New York. Those advanced orientals have been willing to take their own medicine and to show the way to the folks at home. On the occasion of the festival of the full moon, the other day they snipped off their pigtails and joined the modern movement.

An incident to Chicago itself brings the Celestial still closer home to us. A large delegation of new students from China was met at the railway station by a committee of their compatriots, already at school here, who were emphatic college clothes and got out a resounding college yell. Thus young men will help guide the future destinies of their country. Once get the avalanche started and nothing can stop it. China is under way.

MONTHLY MEETING OF SCHOOL BOARD

Medical Examination of Scholars Made by Dr. LeCompte--Concerning Township Scholars--To Discuss New School Code.

The regular monthly meeting of the Bristol school board was held on Wednesday evening. The members who failed to attend were Messrs. Booz, Boyle, Swain and Young.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

The treasurer reported the balance on hand at last meeting, $11,376.13; received interest on Grundy medal bond; received from tax collector, $750; received State appropriation, $6,004.95; available cash on hand including bond account, $18,142.33. The State appropriation this year is $157 less than received last year.

MEDICAL EXAMINATION OF SCHOOL.

The school committee reported that on that day it had visited all the twenty-seven departments in the schools. Dr. LeCompte reported that he had made a cursory medical examination of the scholars in the various departments. The children were given breathing exercises, and the physician said he detected probably a dozen marked cases of adenoids. In these cases he said the parents should be notified of the condition of their children. Dr. LeCompte said the schools were particularly free from skin diseases, although several are home being treated for scabies.

NEW BOOKS.

The Book committee reported that it had purchased an International Encyclopedia for the high school. The Library committee reported the purchase of forty books at a cost of $17.60.

Orders were ordered drawn for the payment of the superintendent's, teacher's and janitors' salaries for September and October.

ATTENDANCE RECORD.

The superintendent's report for September was as follows: Total number of pupils enrolled, 1,108; greatest number present, 873; average attendance, 982; least number present, 873; per cent. of attendance, .93; present every half day, 476; new pupils admitted, 97; number promoted, 1.

CONCERNING TOWNSHIP SCHOLARS.

The superintendent, Miss Baggs, reported the conditions in relation to a number of pupils attending the high school from Bristol township. The law provides that in townships where there are no high schools, scholars may attend a high school in the nearest district, and the school board where the scholars came from shall be required to pay the tuition of such scholars. It appears there is a high school in Newportville which is not recognized in the matter of State appropriation for high schools for the reason that there are less than twelve scholars attending, but nevertheless the township maintains a high school course with a competent teacher. The question that has arisen will the township or the parents be required to pay the tuition of the township pupils attending the Bristol high school? There are nine such pupils. After consultation with the county superintendent the board decided that Miss Baggs inform the parents of the township pupils that they must pay tuition and not the township ...ool board.

Want Postmaster of Eddington.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that on Saturday, October 22, an examination will be held at Bristol, as a result of which it is expected to make certification to fill a contemplated vacancy in the position of fourth class postmaster of class B at Eddington, Pa., and other vacancies as they may occur at that office, unless it shall be decided in the interests of the service to fill the vacancy by reinstatement. The compensation of the postmaster at this office was $454.00 for the last fiscal year.

Age limit, 21 years and over on the date of the examination.

Applicants must reside within the territory supplied by the post office for which the examination is announced.

The examination is open to all citizens of the United States who can comply with the requirements.

Application forms and full information concerning the requirements of the examination can be secured from the postmaster at Eddington, Pa., the secretary of the board of civil service examiners at Bristol, or from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

Applications should be properly executed and filed with the commission at Washington within 7 days before the date of the examination, otherwise it may be impracticable to examine the applicants.

NO. 3 CO. HOUSES AUTO APPARATUS

Third Ward Firemen Have Celebration and Burgess Endorses Political Candidates.

The Good Will Hose Company, No. 3, of the Third ward of Bristol, housed its new automobile chemical apparatus last Saturday afternoon with characteristic ceremonies. There was a parade, headed by a band, speeches, the housing ceremonies, more speeches and a "spread."

The starting of the programme was delayed a short time waiting for the arrival of the machine from the Trenton coach makers, but when it finally appeared the parade started and proceeded through the principal streets.

The members of the company, dressed in their uniforms gathered at the hose house on Swain street, at four o'clock and paraded with the new apparatus and a band.

An address was made at the hose house by Doron Green as a representative of Good Will Company, in which he congratulated the company upon the progress made and also called attention to the liberality which the borough council had displayed in its treatment of the hose company.

After the housing ceremonies the members and guests, including the members of council adjourned to Mohican hall where a feast was prepared. Doron Green introduced the speakers, which included Burgess Henry E. Ancker, Joseph R. Grundy, Chief Franklin Gilkeson, Gustav Rathke, Walter Moore, Charles Coombs, Granville Stephenson, Ray Nevegold and John Williams, representing the borough council and the five fire companies of the town.

BURGESS ANCKER'S ADDRESS.

The first speaker presented by Mr. Green was Burgess Ancker who utilized the occasion to boom the candidacy of Bristol's popular chief of the fire department, Franklin Gilkeson. Mr. Ancker, in his usual eloquent manner said:

"While I appreciate the honor and privilege of addressing you on this happy occasion I do not propose to burden you with any lengthy remarks. I will say, however, that no man can review the fire department of Bristol or a single company comprising that department without feeling a thrill of civic pride. I congratulate you on your progressiveness, on your pull-together spirit and I am quite certain that with the beautiful and substantial addition which has been procured through most commendable efforts that your efficiency will be much improved, realizing in willingness and capabilities you are second to none. You form an important link in what is recognized generally as the best volunteer fire department of like size in the State of Pennsylvania.

"None realize better than I that this is in no wise a political gathering, but somehow as I have lived among you pretty much all of my life, over 33 years, and as your best interests are certainly mine, and as I trust to a degree my interests are yours, I feel I have the right, and it would be entirely appropriate to discuss, if not the burning question of the hour, a subject uppermost in my mind. It is our chief, Franklin Gilkeson, the worthy son of a honored sire, who through your importunities is now a candidate for the Legislature, and it was largely through his untiring efforts that the fire department of Bristol has reached its splendid efficiency, and it should be a sufficient guarantee that when he goes to Harrisburg through the effort of your members, that he will do all in his power for you firemen individually and collectively, and for the fire department as a whole, and it should be our duty, not only to pledge him our loyalty and support, but do the utmost to get our friends and neighbors to do the same. As an expression of good wishes for his success and also as an expression of congratulation for the members of No. 3 for their most commendable work and for their success, I propose we give three cheers."

Morrisville Man Ends His Life.

Despondent over the death of his mother, who died seven weeks ago, Clarence P. Fowler, aged 22, son of Thaddeus M. Fowler of Moreau street, Morrisville and brother of Borough Secretary and grocer Thaddeus B. Fowler, ended his life about 8 o'clock Sunday evening by drinking a quantity of carbolic acid.

The young man was alone in the house at the time, his father being away on a business trip and his sister, Miss Martha, who lives with him, having gone in the morning to Passaic to visit another sister, Miss Gertrude, who teaches school there.

Young Mr. Fowler seemed to be in good spirits in the morning when his sister left home, but to make sure that he would not destroy himself Miss Fowler emptied a large bottle of carbolic acid, which had been used in disinfecting the house. She overlooked a smaller bottle, however, which was kept in a closet.

The family feared that he might attempt suicide, as he was constantly brooding over the death of his mother, together with the fact that he had been unable to secure a good position as bookkeeper. He had also suffered for some time with cerebro spinal meningitis, which left him in a melancholy condition.

That the young man carefully planned his act is evident by the fact that he emptied the contents of the bottle in a glass, then undressed and prepare to retire. He drank the poison, went to bed and died in agony, without anyone near to hear his moans.

When his sister arrived home he was dead. Dr. Wetmore was immediately summoned, but life was extinct. Deputy Coroner Harvey S. Rue, of Bristol, was notified and after viewing the body issued a burial certificate. He decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

Mr. Fowler was widely known. He was born and raised in Morrisville. After being educated in the local public schools he took a course at the Rider, Moore & Stewart Schools, Trenton. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school and was also one of the active members of the M. S. Club when it was in existence. Besides his father, he is survived by his brother, Thaddeus, and three sisters, Miss Martha, who lives at home; Miss Gertrude, a teacher in the Passaic public schools, and Mrs. Frank Green, of Flemington.

REV. JOHNSTON'S SQUARE PLATFORM

Keystone Candidate for the Legislature Has Issued Platform Upon Which He Proposes to Stand Squarely.

This has been a busy week in political circles in Bucks and Montgomery counties and the preliminary details of the Keystone campaign were attended to and now the contest is on in earnest.

On Monday the papers preempting the Keystone title for Bucks and Montgomery counties were filed at Harrisburg, as well as the nomination papers of R. E. Difenderfer, candidate for Congress; Wynne James, of Doylestown, candidate for State Senator and Rev. W. T. Johnston, of Bristol, candidate for the Assembly. The papers were taken personally to the State capitol and filed with the prothonotary of Dauphin county and the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Mr. Johnston has outlined a plan of campaign and is going to make a hustling canvass for election. He is well qualified for the work cut out and proposes to visit all sections of the county and get in personal contact with the voters.

MR. JOHNSTON'S PLATFORM.

Mr. Johnston has prepared the following platform which he proposes to put in the hands of the voters:

1. I stand unalterably opposed to syndicate politics.

2. I stand for the principle that the representative elected by the people shall represent the people and not a political organization.

3. I stand as opposed to the tyranny of caucus rule.

4. I stand for a law that will permit the voters to indicate their choice in the election of United States Senators.

5. I stand for the safe-guarding of the public health and will vigorously oppose any law permitting the use of poisonous preservations in food products.

6. I stand opposed to the present scandalous, extravagant and unbusiness-like methods of making State appropriations under the guise of charity.

7. I stand for the conservation of the natural resources for the Commonwealth for the benefit of the public and not the corporations.

8. I stand for liberal appropriations for good roads, apportionments to be made as are the school funds, direct to the townships, in order that the present squandering methods may be ended.

9. I stand for the State's proper recognition of our country's veteran defenders—the old soldiers.

10. I stand opposed to any and all measures of a "gang" nature, and in favor of all legislation for the benefit of the people as a whole.

I stand squarely on the above platform.

Elect me and I will represent YOU.
WILLIAM T. JOHNSTON.

FREEDOM PARTY A SOCIAL EVENT

Over Two Hundred Guests Attend Dance in Honor of Ralph Downs Anniversary.

Probably one of the most elaborate events of its kind was the "freedom party" and dance given in St. Marks school hall, Bristol, last Monday evening by Mr. and Mrs. John Downs, of 310 Jefferson avenue, in honor of their son, Ralph L. Downs, who upon that day celebrated his twenty-first birthday anniversary.

The hall was magnificently decorated, the stage being one mass of palms and evergreens, behind which was concealed Price's orchestra of nine pieces. The electric stage footlights were covered with pink, green and yellow tinted shades diffusing a soft glow about the ... bower. About the room ... fashion were grouped palms and potted flowers.

In one corner of the hall on the floor near the stage was arranged an attractive section for the comfort of the patronesses. Rugs covered the space, and divans and leather upholstered chairs.

The patronesses were: Mrs. J. A. Downs, Mrs. P. O. Kidd, Mrs. Frank Minster, Mrs. Harry J. Arnold, Mrs. J. Dungan, Mrs. John L. Hibbs, Mrs. Fred Larzalere, of Bristol, and Mrs. W. C. D. Gauntt, of Burlington.

The ushers were: John A. Downs, Ralph L. Downs, William Fine, Edward Stetson, Franklin Gauntt, Ellwood Geslin, Ellwood Watt, Edward Ferris, Mulford Callanan and Harry J. Arnold, Jr.

The grand march was led by Ralph Downs and Miss Hilda Kidd. On the way to the dance Mr. Downs and Miss Kidd stopped their cab at Wintersteln's gallery and had their photographs taken.

Those who participated in the festive occasion declare it was Bristol's greatest social event. There were over 200 guests present and the costumes of the young ladies were rich and beautiful, the ensemble making a magnificent scene.

The guest of honor, young Mr. Downs, was presented with many rich and costly gifts, including a fine diamond ring by his parents, a silver Gillette razor and outfit, the gift of the ushers, a diamond-studded gold watch fob, from some friends, besides many scarf pins and other articles.

An original feature of the occasion was a conception of Mr. Downs, Sr., as each person entered the hall, their name was written on a small card and placed in a box. When all the guests had arrived the box was shaken up and a card containing a name was drawn out, the lucky one being presented with a five dollar gold piece. The fortunate one to win the coin was George D. Orr, of Philadelphia.

Guests were present from Bristol, Burlington, Mt. Holly, Trenton, Bordentown, Wilmington, Philadelphia and Harrisburg.

Among the Bristol guests were: Burgess and Mrs. Henry E. Ancker, Mr. and Mrs. William K. Highland, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Minster, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Witter, Mr. and Mrs. George Leigh, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Buechler, Mrs. Sarah Fegley, Mrs. Ruth Ahlee, Misses Adella Wright, Marie Minster, Mabel Groff, Margaret Lorimer, Irene Horn, Lidie Roper, Bessie Brennan, Jennie Fine, Helen Coleman, Margaret Ahlee, Abbie Chase, Florence Chambers, Grace Reed, Elizabeth Bevan, Francetta Bailey, Vera Vansant, Ethel Townsend, Esther Daniels, Messrs. Edward B. Stetson, Clifford L. Anderson, Edward Gallagher, Howard J. James, E. G. Minster, Clarence J. Buckman, Dudley Bell, Harry J. Arnold, William Fine, Edward Edwards, Earl Brown, E. W. Minster, Howard Sims and others.

FAMILY THEATRE SOLD.

The Family Theatre, owned by Max Cohen, and operated as a moving picture and vaudeville amusement place, on Mill street, Bristol, has been sold to Edward Super, the present lessee, upon private terms. The Family Theatre was erected several years ago by Robert Coleman and John Harkins. Later Cohen became the owner and conducted the place. Later it was leased to Super, who now becomes the owner of the premises. The place is well patronized and good entertainments are given six nights in the week.

BRISTOL POULTRY SHOW.

The annual exhibition of the Bristol Poultry and Pet Stock Association, which will be held December 6, 7, 8 and 9, is booming up in such a manner that by the time the show dates arrive it is believed the exhibition will prove to be one of the best of its kind in the county.

In addition to the twenty silver cups and miscellaneous prizes announced in the Gazette last week, two more silver cups and other premiums have been added to the list this week.

Frank H. Appleton offers a silver cup for the best Partridge, Columbian or Silver Penciled Plymouth Rock in the show. John A. McGinley has presented a silver cup for the best bantam. John M. Allen, of Jefferson avenue, offers a setting of White Orpington eggs for the best display of Orpingtons, any variety. Frank T. Chambers gives a $5 setting of eggs for the best Partridge Rock. Mrs. M. C. Hendrickson, an umbrella for the best old Splash Maltese pigeon.

The association has engaged the services of two noted poultry judges to place the ribbons, Edward S. Hickman, of Cheney, Pa. and William T. Fotteral, of Oakford, Pa.

The membership fee, including annual dues, one dollar per year. Only members will be permitted to make entries at the show. Join now and the fee will include all membership dues up to December, 1911.

BRISTOL RAISES BIG FIG CROPS

Trees Brought from Sicily Flourish in Owner's Yards and Yields Handsome Profits.

A new pomological industry has been established in Bristol and judging by the highly successful efforts of Gustav Moffo, a native Sicilian, of 122 Penn street, fig raising can be made a very profitable pursuit in this section of Bucks county.

The Philadelphia Record recently heralded as an important event that a resident of Woodbury had gathered a crop of figs from one tree imported from Sicily, claiming that it was the only one in the state of New Jersey and from which a bushel of figs had been gathered.

Mr. Moffo upon his Penn street premises has a fig orchard of twenty-five trees laden with fruit. For several weeks he has been gathering the fine large purple fruit, which he sells at the rate of fifty cents a dozen and he has bushels of them.

Moffo imported the first sapling some years ago from Sicily. It grew rapidly and by cutting and planting sprigs of the original tree he now has twenty large bearing trees and five that are nearly ready to yield.

In the fall Moffo digs a deep trench around the roots of the trees, bends them down to the ground and covers the entire tree over with straw and earth to protect them from the vigors of the winter weather. In the spring the trees are uncovered, raised to their upright positions and the soil replaced about the roots.

Bristol Loses Last Game.

Bristol lost the last game of the season to Fairhill by the score of 5 to 4, on Sunday. While ten runs were made, not one was earned, as all the errors were made at critical periods.

Although Gaiser had thirteen strikeouts, he was hit for eleven safeties, while the locals secured but eight.

The features of the game were the fielding of Barton and the hitting of McDermott, Stutz and Morley.

Soby, a youngster, was given a trial at shortstop for Bristol and created a favorable impression.

The score:

The Poultry Yard.

The way one keeps his fowls is generally the way the fowls keep him.

The day of crossing breeds is a thing of the past. We now have utility pure breds.

Work up a strain of hens that will lay. Save the eggs from the best layers, and set them.

The fowls that are small for their age should go now. Their room is of more value than their company.

Hens dread to get into dirty nest boxes. They won't do it if they can help it. Why don't you see to this, right off?

Never change to a new breed simply because extravagant claims are given. It is better to try to improve the old ones.

No one can consistently be a fancier and a marketman at the same time. The branches are antagonistic to each other.

The experienced poultryman breeds only from his best winter layers. It is then when prices are at their best, and profits are to be counted upon in the poultry business.

A good coating of whitewash on the inside of each house will help considerably in getting rid of vermin. Take several inches of dirt out of the houses and replace with new, clean earth.

Start the trapnests so that it can be known which are the best winter layers. Almost any old hen will lay in spring and summer; it takes a good hen to lay in late fall and winter.

This is a good season for disposing of all the surplus old hens. Better get rid of them while they will fetch a good price as roasters. The prices are good up to about November 20th.

It is a too common practice to inbreed. Don't do it. It is easier to secure good cockerels now than it will be later in the season. Get them now and you will have them when needed.

Laid in your stock of dust yet for winter? Don't forget it. Neglect is one of the worst enemies hens have—almost equal to lice. Try to avoid dampness in your houses; sure to bring disease.

Do not allow the pullets to roost in the coops where they were raised. The cooler the weather gets the worse they will crowd. They will suffer from the heat and when let out these cool mornings are apt to take cold, and roup is the next thing on the programme. The pullets expected to lay this month should be roosting in a comfortable house at this time.—From October Farm Journal.

BENS... CENTENN...

The Historic Methodist ... brated its Hundredth Anni...sary Last Sunday.

The one hundredth anniversary of Bensalem Methodist Episcopal Church was celebrated with appropriate services on last Sunday, October 2, 1910.

At the morning service the Rev. Dr. Frank P. Parkin, District Superintendent, preached a ...ble and interesting historical ... to an appreciative audience ... filled the edifice.

In the afternoon the church was crowded beyond its seating capacity. The new tower and bell, erected and presented by Frank S. Reynolds as a memorial to his deceased father, John Reynolds, was formally received by the pastor, Dr. Bradley and dedicated by Dr. Parkin.

Addresses were delivered by the District Superintendent and the Revs. H. J. Illick and A. A. Thompson, former pastors. A number of other ministers who had served the church in former years, were invited, but were unable to be present.

The efficient choir of the Hulmeville Methodist Episcopal Church, assisted by a number of singers from Bristol, furnished the music for the occasion and made for themselves a good reputation.

The pastor and his congregation were greatly and agreeably surprised on entering the church that morning, to find the pulpit and pews supplied with new hymnals. The kind donors were two women from Philadelphia, whose mother was at one time a member of the church, but we are not permitted to publish their names.

The church has been replastered and repainted, and a considerable part of the cemetery wall renewed, at a cost of several hundred dollars, and all obligations met.

The pastor and members desire to publicly thank their many friends who gave them such a hearty and liberal free will offering on this occasion.

HISTORICAL REVIEW.

This society worshipped in private houses a number of years previous to the erection of the church. In the year 1804 a camp meeting was held in Jacob Helling's woods, and this camp meeting was continued in the neighborhood annually for a number of years.

In 1810 the original edifice, which has since been enlarged, was built on a piece of ground donated by Joseph Rodman. The timber used in the structure was given by General Willett and cut from his woods. At that early day there was no regular pastor over this church and congregation, but the Revs. James Fischer and Richard Smith, who had charge of a circuit sixty miles in extent, preached there at stated periods.

A woman was present at the anniversary whose mother was baptized in the church in 1810, at the age of two years.

A Few Moves.

William Tomlinson has moved from Wood street to Philadelphia.

Edward V. Wright has moved from Wood to Dorrance street.

NEXT ... PROGRESSIVE

Insurgents Will Number at Least Fifty.

TO HOLD BALANCE OF POWER.

Sure to Control the Senate—Standpatters Falling by the Wayside—The Fate of the Twenty one Senators Who Supported the Payne-Aldrich Bill

By JAMES A EDGERTON.

THE next congress will be progressive That is now a foregone conclusion. Even if the Democrats should control the house the progressive members of that party by combining with the progressive Republicans could force through advanced measures If the Democrats should make gains but should lack a majority the progressive Republicans

GEORGE L RECORD.

The man who was Everett Colby's chief helper in advancing the "new idea" in New Jersey politics has been nominated for congress after a hot primary fight Record is running in one of the Jersey City districts which is now represented by a Democrat It was largely due to his work, extending over many years that Hudson county won progressive this year.

would hold the balance of power and control legislation One or the other of these two results is a certainty It is not quite safe to say that any future event can be depended upon but it is practically certain that the insurgent and Democrat membership in the next house will not only not be increased but will probably be considerably decreased Already nearly twenty of progressives have been defeated in place of standpatters by Democrats, and the insurgent vote in the next house will reach at least fifty

In the senate a similar condition prevails It is practically impossible for the Democrats should win control But they are certain to increase their membership sufficiently to overwhelm progressives the balance of power of the thirty members whose terms expire three are progressives Three Democrats Lafollette and Clapp, who succeeded themselves at the election and Beveridge elected to succeed himself or be succeeded by a Democrat Poindexter of Washington and Townsend of Michigan Republicans nominated in place of Jones of Washington who was making a progressive fight Of the two Republicans Smith of New Jersey have been defeated in the primaries in place of Dixon and both nominees are further from the progressives than the retiring senators

In South Dakota there are two senators to be elected a successor to McCumber (Rep) and Crawford (Dem) Asle Gronna a progressive member of the house has been nominated for one of the vacancies Of the remaining thirty there are seven Democrats all of whom will be succeeded by Democrats or by men of the same political faith

Of the twenty-three who are Republicans not one is more than nominally a standpatter and cannot be followed by a Democrat Of the twenty-three who are Republicans not one is more than nominally a standpatter and cannot be followed by a Democrat

Of the twenty-three who are Republicans not one is more than nominally a standpatter and cannot be followed by a Democrat Jacob H Gallinger of New Hampshire Chauncey M Depew of New York Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania Clarence D Clark of Wyoming and Carter of Montana have hard fights The renomination of the nominee elsewhere in the list Warner of Missouri who has voted with the insurgents Of these are standpatters with the possible exception of Lodge who voted as a progressive on most of the time Bulkeley of Connecticut and Lodge of Massachusetts the balance of being defeated either by insurgents or by the Democrats Of all the thirty the only standpatters who seem fairly sure of success themselves are Oliver of Pennsylvania Sutherland of Utah Page of Vermont and Scott of West Virginia

Of the last named state might be said in Lindside Thus do the voters people punish a betrayal of the Public already overtaking the sentence passed for the Payne-Aldrich bill Punish a homily for moralists Of the thirty men whose terms expire with this congress only one were supporters of the Payne bill Six of the twenty-one, Aldrich himself, have with them only one in whose state the election occurred has lost to Democrats for the first time in Two have been replaced Senators one getting out of the senate to run the other being defeated in the primaries Ten remaining are on the anxious seat Of four either from their party in the opposition Of the remaining six two less than a half dozen in number of re-election

Of the twenty-three who have been honored by their party by the nation Most of them are known gray in the service Scott has been in the senate for thirty years Yet for this reason of political perfidy their seats are endangered and they are regarded with distrust or aversion where before they were held in respect and esteem You cannot break promises to all of the people all of the time When the battle is over this battalion of twenty, six will be shot so full of holes that they should serve as a warning to the brute of promise breakers for all time to come

Retribution has been equally busy at the other end of the capitol Four supporters of the Payne bill have fallen by the wayside in Kansas, three in Cannon's own state of Illinois, two in Iowa, two in California and one each in Idaho New York, Minnesota Ohio, Michigan and Wisconsin. So much for

Death Was a Live One

While on the way to the race track in New Orleans one day several winters ago an undertaker named Mr Dooley passed a funeral procession on its way to the cemetery Dooley had a friend with him, another Irishman who exclaimed 'Sure, death always wins There happened to be a horse entered that day named Death and he went with ridiculous ease, Dooley winning a good bet on him Dooley told all his friends of the incident and they all went out to the course the next day Death was entered He won every time he started for thirteen races It was near getaway day when every one was packing up ready to take the last train for New York The horse was sold that afternoon at an auction sale, and the buyer was Mr Dooley He hitched him a month later to a hearse, and the horse became frightened and ran away and was not stopped until the graveyard was reached After the burial Dooley had the horse shot and buried near the cemetery "You're a dead one now Death" said Dooley "but a live one in those thirteen races"—Baltimore American

The Fashion of the House

A servant girl happened to be engaged at a farmhouse where the mistress was known to have a hasty temper On the first Saturday night the girl was at the farmhouse she was told by the mistress to clean the boots ready for Sunday The mistress on coming into the kitchen later on saw that the girl had cleaned her own boots first So she took them up and threw them into a tub of water that was standing by and bounced out of the kitchen The girl said nothing but when she had cleaned the other boots she threw them also into the water

"Whatever possessed you to do that girl?" asked the mistress on coming again in the kitchen

The girl simply replied

Saved by Her Voice

When traveling to Paris with some other ladies on one occasion Mme Grisi had a thrilling adventure At a small wayside station a man entered the carriage, and it soon became evident from his threatening gestures and eccentric behavior that he was a dangerous lunatic Though her companions were panic stricken Mme Grisi retained complete presence of mind and with the utmost composure began to sing At once the maniac was quiet His whole attention was riveted on that magnificent voice, and he remained the most appreciative of listeners until the train reached the next station, where he was secured It transpired subsequently that he was a maniac with homicidal tendencies who had escaped from an asylum

MAPLE LEAF BUTTERINE IS THE HIGHEST GRADE OF OLEOMARGARINE

OLEOMARGARINE

DR. HARVEY W. WILEY

The noted Government Food Expert, says:

"Oleomargarine is a wholesome and nutritious article of diet and can usually be sold at a lower price than butter."

THIS statement will no doubt surprise many housewives of Bristol and vicinity It is directly opposite to what they have long been hearing from their dealer in butter And that's why the misleading impression of Butterine is so general The facts about it have come from the wrong source Now the real truth will be told A campaign of publicity is here begun in the interests of the housewife. She will learn why Butterine is pure wholesome and palatable—why it is cleaner even than butter, and less likely to become rancid Furthermore, she will learn why its use will save her considerable money

A mass of evidence came out before the Congressional Investigating Committee at Washington a few months ago that proved a revelation even to the makers of Butterine themselves From every source words of praise and commendation were voluntarily offered that swept aside the last prejudice against this delicious table delicacy Butterine has won out—and solely on its merits The one hundred and thirty five million pounds that were sold last year are only a drop in the bucket to the amount that will be bought this year after the facts of its superiority—established by experts testifying to the Congressional Committee—become widely known

OF course, everyone knows that the advancing price of the absolute necessities of life is causing untold suffering and misery throughout the land

The second high item of expense is butter Its many uses, not only as a spread but as an important ingredient in plain cookery, make it a real necessity, not a luxury. Pure butter, or a substitute just as good, will always be in widespread demand And right here is where the consumer can effect a substantial saving The wage-earner will be interested in this statement of a specialist of wide repute

"Butterine is, in my opinion quite as valuable as a nutritive agent as butter itself It is perfectly wholesome and is desirable as an article of food. I can see no reason why Butterine should not be an entirely satisfactory equivalent for ordinary butter"

PROF. GEORGE F BARKER,
University of Pennsylvania

Butterine, or, as it is more frequently called, oleomargarine, is made under the exacting eyes of veterinary inspectors of the United States government It is far purer and more sanitary than butter It can properly displace butter in even the most exacting household The great saving alone is well worth the experiment of trying

---

U. S. Supreme Court Says Oleomargarine is a Healthful Article.

Statement of John Pierce, representing the Association of Iron and Steel Workers

They seize on every legislative opportunity to try to wipe out the sale of oleomargarine—not to regulate it, but to tax and legislate it out of existence Have not a dozen states, through the immense influence of the butter interests, and their mis statements, in times past, enacted laws utterly forbidding the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine within their borders on the lying and shallow pretense that it was inimical to public health? And this claim has been seriously advanced despite the fact that scientists to a man have declared it just as wholesome as butter, and Justice Peckham, of the United States Supreme Court, in rendering a decision, said it was a "notorious fact" that it was a healthful article Pennsylvania had such a law on its statute books, from 1885 to 1895

President of United Mine Workers' Association Now Eats Oleomargarine Because it is Wholesome.

Statement of Patrick Dolan President of the United Mine Workers Association

With us, in western Pennsylvania, oleomargarine is as firmly placed and as staple as sugar I used to be in the grocery business and I sold oleomargarine in large quantities to our people They knew that they were buying it when they got it. It was cheaper, and as good, in many instances, as the creamery butter that I used to sell and paid a high price for and had to get a high price for from the consumer I use the article myself, every day—because it is wholesome, and cheaper than the other article for me to provide my family.
